Desire
Longing

Jesus Christ is the treasure. He is the pearl of great price. He is so attractive that it is worth dropping every goal in order to get in touch with him. And whereas some people have been searching for that fulfilment all their lives, others come across it by accident. I was in the latter category. I was a happy teenager, content with my home, my academic success, my sporting success and my friendships. And I stumbled across the greatest friendship of all, Jesus Christ.

He is the treasure that I have come value above all else. I was not an emotional cripple looking for a crutch. I was not a romantic looking for a cause. I was not at the bottom of the pile hoping for a leg up. I was not looking for anything in particular. But I found treasure. That treasure has utterly transformed my life, my goals, my lifestyle. And that is the source of my passion to share the treasure with others.
